Republic of Croatia represents a unique natural environment where on a relatively small area one can find great variety of nature phenomena, all tied in the wonderful bond of the Mediterranean, the Alps and the Pannonia. The relief and climatic diversity of Croatia determines its vegetative abundance, from the Danube and Drava river isles, the indigenous forests of willow, white and black poplar, over the most beautiful and valuable forests of pedunculate oak and field ash, as well as beech and sessile oak hill forests, up to the wonderful natural beech and fir forests in Gorski kotar and Lika. To insure that the forests fulfill their economical, ecological and welfare functions the state of Croatia, as the owner of 80% of forests and forest land, founded the company Hrvatske šume d.o.o. The company manages these natural resources on over 20,290 km2 under strict principles of rationality and sustainability. 95% of all Croatian forests are natural and due to that fact in 2002 Croatia received the prestigious FSC certificate, as one of very few countries whose certificate includes the whole forest area of cca 2 Million ha. In the 240-year-long forestry tradition in Croatia, foresters have managed not only forests, but also hunting grounds. The game was managed integrally along with forests, which is considered to be the optimal way of managing the whole ecosystem. Croatia possesses numerous undisturbed natural oases wherein there abide all three of great European predators: bear, wolf and lynx. Hrvatske šume d.o.o. manages today 27 open and enclosed hunting grounds on the total area of 298,075 ha. Open hunting grounds take 290,540 ha of the total area, the enclosed ones 4,135 ha, while some game species are bred at the special, professionally managed breeding sites on the area of 3,400 ha. Hrvatske šume d.o.o. invests great financial means and significant professional potential into the optimization of the wildlife funds regarding their age and sex structure. The activities regarding the improvement of trophy value of the game are considered to be one of the most important tasks, aiming at the eventual increase of hunting revenues. In our hunting areas almost all game species can be hunted, but we draw your attention to the hunt on the roaring deer or the group wild boar hunt, as well as to the extremely exciting bear hunt. Special attention is being given to the monitoring of the health condition of the game in our hunting areas, conducting of veterinary measures, as well as to the inspections of health conditions of all the obtained venison. The looks, construction and maintenance of our hunting objects became a distinguishing characteristic of our hunting grounds, and the equipment, comfort and the exquisite gastronomy service in numerous hunting lodges represent a shining showcase of the hunting grounds, people, tradition and culinary achievements in our country.
The well-known Slavonian hunting ground Spačva is situated in Southeastern Slavonia, between the Sava and Danube rivers. Slavonian plain with the altitudes between 77 and 90 meters, rugged by numerous water surfaces, presents a typical hunting ground scenery situated in the largest world-known Slavonian oak forest complex. Spačva hunting ground provides the ideal conditions for the abiding of the red deer, roe deer and the wild boar. A multitude of birds and waterfowls gives a hunter an unforgettable experience of nature and hunt. Within the composition of the hunting ground there is also the Forest vegetation reserve Lože and a special landscape Virovi (Whirls), which remind us on forests as they once looked like. Winter group hunts on wild boar and individual hunts on a roaring deer are a special hunting experience for every hunter. After a strenuous day in the hunt, the hunters will be delighted with the wide-known Slavonian cuisine specialties in the comfortable hunting mansion “Dvorac Spačva”.

Baranja is situated in the Northeastern part of Croatia. It is a region that underwent a whimsical history, but it was always well-known by the abundance of game and by wonderful hunting that made this hunting area famous all over the world. The hunting ground was established in 1697 when Eugen of Savoy received the estates from the emperor Leopold I. Since then the hunting ground was owned by numerous lords. The hunting ground comprises the marsh woods along the rivers Drava and Danube that are especially rich with red deer and wild boar. In a wonderful bond of nature and game, many hunters acquired valuable trophies in a stalking or coach-driving hunt on the roaring deer, while group hunts enable the possibility of shooting even a hundred wild boars in line. The hunters are accommodated in the first-grade hunting mansion Zlatna Greda or in the traditional lodge Monjoroš. The hunting mansion Zlatna Greda also offers the possibility of meeting or seminar organization. Among the gastronomy specialties the attention is to be drawn to the exquisite venison dishes.

Hunting grounds situated in the Eastern part of Croatia – the County Osječko-baranjska and Slavonian district – represent the pearl of the Croatian hunting offer. Đakovo, as the historical and cultural centre of the region with its famous cathedral, symbolizes that entire region. In the year 1870 the bishop J.J.Strossmayer arranges the hunting area Mačkovac as the breeding site for the red deer and wild boar. To this day the hunts are organized professionally, with the full respect of the hunting culture and the Croatian hunting tradition. Especially popular are the group hunts on wild boar, with a possibility of very rich shooting line. Hunting lodges Kondrić and Mačkovac are situated within the hunting area. With their top-grade arrangement they guarantee an enjoyable stay, while they also offer the possibility of meeting or seminar organization. Among the gastronomy specialties the attention is to be drawn to the exquisite venison dishes and the famous wines from the Đakovo region.

Among the fertile plough-fields and meadows of Podravina, enclosed with the dense lowland forests, there are the famous Đurđevački Peski (The Sands of Đurđevac). The gusts and the dunes are long gone and only a small part of this “Croatian Sahara” remained in motion and bare due to the impact of the winds, as a silent witness of the past of Podravina. Here one can visit one of the largest pheasants-breeding stations in the state. Its breeding of pheasants, along with the wild ones, guarantees a successful hunt with the use of experienced pointers. Every hunter will enjoy the beautiful landscape, abundance of wildlife and a comfortable hunting lodge “Peski”.

To stay and hunt in the woods of Gorski kotar is a wonderful experience. Smrekova draga is situated in the dignified serenity and greenness of centenarial beech and fir forests on the Risnjak–Seječnik mountain complex, bordering to the National park Risnjak. Those who haven’t hunt the Karst roaring deer, awaited a bear from the high shooting stand or listen to the song of the capercaillie in the dawn – they just haven’t experienced the true hunting paradise. Fishing is also possible in the lakes Bajer, Lokve, Lepenica and the upper flow of the river Kupa. The hunters are accompanied by professional hunting staff and the accommodation is organized in one of the comfortable hunting lodges in the hunting ground.

Hunting ground Ričićko bilo is situated on the most beautiful Croatian mountain Velebit, on the altitudes between 1200 and 1400 meters. The hunting ground comprises the indigenous beech and fir forests with beautiful meadows and Karst areas. There you can encounter the protected wolf, lynx and the capercaillie.

In the safety of the high shooting stand, a hunter can wait for a bear or secretive mountain wild boar, or he can stalk the Karst roaring deer through meadows and forest openings. One is for sure – it is an experience that stays with the hunter forever.

Sjeverni Velebit (North Velebit) takes up the middle part of the mountain Velebit, between the Adriatic coast and the Karst region Lika. In the centuries old beech and fir forests one can again encounter the protected wolf, lynx or capercaillie. The hunting experience here is unforgettable. The hunters are accommodated in the hunting lodges “Šumarska kuća” or “Muzej šumarstva” (Forestry museum).
Ričičko bilo and Sjeverni Velebit are open hunting grounds on areas of 22,669 ha and 28,557 ha.

Biokovo

Hunting ground Biokovo is one of the best-known chamois hunting areas in this part of Europe. This distinctively mountainous hunting ground on the altitudes between 380 and 1750 meters is the ideal habitat for chamois, moufflon and wild boar. The golden chamois trophies made Biokovo world-wide famous. The abundance of game, quality of trophies and beauty of nature are reason enough why hunters return to Biokovo again and again. The hunting area is ideal for whole families, whose other members can sunbathe or swim at the sea while the hunters are busy shooting.

SVETI ILIJA - OREBIĆ

UŠP SPLIT: HUNTING GROUNDS XIX/10 SVETI ILIJA OREBIĆ AND XV/2 OŠTRICA

SV. Ilija Orebić is the most appropriate habitat for the mouflon game in this part of Europe. It is situated on the peninsula Pelješac, on the altitudes up to 960 meters. As there are no roads, the transportation within the hunting area is organized by usage of beasts of burden. It is a real challenge for the lovers of true primordial hunt, who will approach the mouflon over steep cliffs and with a little luck ordain themselves with trophies of over 230 CIC points. The accommodation is line with the way of hunting, so the hunters will stay in a forest lodge with an open fireplace and the view on the nearby islands will offer them unforgettable moments.

The breeding site Oštrica is small, but well arranged for the mouflon hunt. It is situated on a small peninsula in the proximity of Šibenik, next to the very coastline of the bluest sea on Earth. On the land side, the peninsula is bounded by a few meters high 15th century wall.
Hunting paths have been cut through the Mediterranean forest cover, so we recommend it for hunters who are not ready for greater physical challenges in the usually demanding mouflon hunt. After the pleasant hunt, the guests can relax over Dalmatian specialties and excellent wines.

Sveti Ilija Orebić is open hunting ground, area 3749 ha; Oštrica is breeding site on area of 261 ha.
